PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

Will H. Barron of North Woodstock, manager of the only co-operative exchange among the farmers in the state, was one of the principal speakers at the annual field day of the Fairfield County Pomona grange at Westport on Wednesday.

He spoke of the benefit of this exchange and how any farmer could save money by becoming a member of this organization, for the exchange has every opportunity of buying goods at the cheapest wholesale figures and selling them at retail prices to the farmers who are members of the exchange.

A business of $12,000 was done the first year by the exchange. The exchange paid a dividend of 20 per cent last year and up to July 1 of this year a dividend of 15 per cent, has been declared. He pointed out the time saving the benefits of the exchange and interspersed the discourse with witty stories that kept the audience in a roar of laughter.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS.

After electing officers and selecting Oklahoma City, Okla., as the next meeting place, the seventh annual convention of the United Spanish War Veterans adjourned Wednesday at Denver. Among the officers are: Commander in chief, Joseph R. S. Jacoby, Seattle, Wash.; junior vice commander, Charles A. Reynolds, Manila, P. I.; national historian, W. T. Tucker, New York. The military leader of the service also elected officers Wednesday, with Charles J. Heinze of Dayton, O., grandissimo.

HIBERNIANS.

More than 500 delegates, assembled from every part of the state, attended the fifteenth biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, in Waterbury, Tuesday and Wednesday. In connection with the A. O. H. convention, the members of the ladies' auxiliary to the A. O. H. held their convention. 150 delegates being present.

Mayor William B. Hotchkiss welcomed the visitors in the name of the city and following his remarks the business began on Tuesday afternoon with State President Philip J. Sullivan of Thompsonville in the chair.

After various state committees had been appointed, the annual reports were read. The report of the state president showed the order to be in a more prosperous condition in Connecticut than in any other state. The members of the A. O. H. in the state, after giving other data concerning the organization, the state president discussed the subject of teaching Irish history in the parochial schools of Connecticut. "This movement has been more successful in Connecticut than anywhere else," he said, "and now Irish history is taught in 22 Connecticut schools." The military organization received the approval of the president, who also reported on the Gaelic scholarship in the Catholic university of America, and outlined the proceedings of the recent national convention.

The state treasurer's report showed that the assets of the order in Connecticut amount to $33,492.55, and the reports of the ladies' auxiliary and of the juvenile organizations were also extremely satisfactory.

The ladies' auxiliary to the A. O. H. held its first convention in Hartford in 1898, and at that time there were only 200 members. There are now 42 auxiliaries with a membership of 5,400, all the counties of the state showing good gains. There is a balance on hand of about $22,000. Two years ago, when the last convention was held, there was in the treasurer's hands $20,000 and the receipts for the past two years have amounted to about $15,000. The expenditures, however, have been large, amounting approximately to $13,000.

William T. May of New London, re-elected state vice president, joined Division No. 1, A. O. H., of New London, in March, 1909. Since that time he has taken an active interest in the order. He has served eight years as an officer of the division, three years as treasurer and for the past five years as state vice president. During his administration the division has paid 15 death benefits to families of deceased members and has also paid over $1,000 for sick benefits, as well as several hundred dollars for charitable purposes and at the present time the division has over $2,200 in the bank and has a membership of 170. Mr. May was elected state vice president at the New Haven convention in August, 1906, and was re-elected at the New Haven convention in 1908.

At 10 o'clock Wednesday morning all the delegates attending, Rev. William A. Keefe of this city acted as sub-deacon. The Norwich delegates bring back glowing reports of the convention.

UNITED WORKMEN.

Thames lodge, No. 13, of Groton, is another of the lodges which holds weekly meetings and a strong drawing card are the carpet bowls contests either among the members or between the lodge team and a team from some other lodge in New London. The Thames lodge team was a winning team in the contest last season. By steps to form a new league and adopt a schedule will be taken right away for the season of 1910-11.

Brothers of the A. O. U. W. will learn with sincere sorrow and sympathy of the death of Mrs. F. Farren, mother of Edward H. Farren of New Haven, the highly esteemed grand foreman of the grand lodge of Connecticut and widow of the late Rev. E. H. Farren, who was one of the strong pillars and staunch supporters of the lodge and who was a grand master workman of the Connecticut jurisdiction. The deceased lady leaves a large family of children, who will miss her and cherish her memory.

EAGLES.

Four new applications for membership were received at the regular meeting of Norwich aerie, No. 357, in Forrester's hall on Wednesday. As three applications had already been favorably passed upon, this makes seven candidates ready for initiation at the next meeting, which will come on Sept.

19, this session on Labor day to be omitted because of the holiday.

Norwich aerie is contemplating the purchase of entire new paraphernalia, consisting of the members' regalia, Martin Knough, Thomas E. Slattery and Thomas J. McKenna, having been appointed to look into the matter.

The state aerie has plans on foot to institute new aeries shortly in Stonington and Williamantic, the conditions in both these places being considered very favorable at this time.

L'UNION ST. JEAN BAPTISTE D'AMERIQUE.

Alma Farcier writes from Killbuck, Conn., stating the side of the supreme secretary and treasurer of the order, in contrast to the statement of the former chief auditor of L'Union St. Jean Baptiste D'Amérique printed from a Woonsocket exchange last week. The letter mentions the fact that letters have been sent out to the delegates to come upon their conduct, telling Mr. Chenet's accusations would soon be proven false. The letter states that it is not the first time J. A. Z. Chenet has had trouble with the order, and so whatever he says about it we must be a little skeptical about. He seems to be a case of get up and ready to take anything he says for the truth and nothing but the truth. With him it seems to be a case of get up and ready to take anything he says for the truth and nothing but the truth.

Arrangements for the annual outing of the cantons of the state at Lake Canaan on September 8 have been completed. The members of Canton Oneco, No. 3, who are to attend, and there promises to be a good representation from this canton will appear at the New Haven station, next Thursday morning at 7 o'clock in fatigue uniforms.

A special arrangement in regard to the trip has been made for the benefit of the Patriarch Militant and their families as they will be unable to attend the annual outing. The next meeting of Canton Oneco, on September 13, there will be degree work and refreshments will be served. The annual number of Odd Fellows from this canton will be invited to attend the state outing at Fairview, Groton, on Labor day.

NEW STATE REFORMATORY.

State Contractors Only Figuring on Estimates in the Building Competition.

Connecticut contractors only are figuring on their estimate in the bidding competition for the various contracts on the proposed new state reformatory on the town of Cheshire.

Architects William D. Johnson of Hartford and R. D. Kimball of Boston, the consulting engineers for the heating and lighting, have drawn plans for the proposed new state reformatory, which will be located on the line of the New Haven trolley, about a mile above the junction of the Waterbury line in the town of Cheshire. There will be a group of twelve buildings connected by a covered walkway.

Facing the Southington road, and about 1,000 feet back from it to the west, is a two-story building, fifty-three by fifty-two feet and three stories high; in the rear of this will be a guard-house, fifty-two by fifty-two feet, and four stories high, arranged above the guard room for gymnasium rooms for the men and for the officers, and the top floor as dormitory for the officers. Running north from the guard house will be a block of a building, 40 feet wide, containing 400 cell cells. At the north end of this block will be a three-story school building containing six class rooms. Eventually there will be built south from the guard house a similar cell block, and school building, giving a total capacity for 800.

Running back from the guard house is a one-story corridor 250 feet long, from which open the various other buildings of the group, all of which are one story only. On the north will be a paint shop twenty-three by thirty-six feet, a hospital forty-seven by 110; a chapel fifty-three by 158. On the south will be a library, twenty-three by thirty-six; a laundry, forty-seven by 115; and dining hall, forty-seven by 115. In the rear of the dining hall and corridor will be the kitchen and store rooms, covering a space eighty-one by ninety-five. Seventy-five feet back of the kitchen building will be the boiler house, fifty-two by sixty-five feet, set two in the ground and connected with all the buildings by a tunnel run under the corridor mentioned above. From this heat will be furnished all of the buildings by a low pressure return gravity steam system and hot water will be supplied by the central plant.

These buildings will stand in an enclosure about 1,000 feet long and 1,000 feet deep. Outside a double row of military drill and for the erection of shops, etc., as may be needed.

The buildings will be constructed of common brick with concrete foundations and Portland brownstone trim. The roofs will be supported by steel trusses and the steep pitched roofs covered with red tile. The other roofs will have only slag roofing. All the doors and partitions will be of fire-proof construction and the finished floors will be either tile or cement.

School of Optimism.

A nation of anglers would be very easy to govern. The habit of always believing in the increased prosperity of the morrow would induce them to accept of any measure that promises unlikely to materialize and to await reforms with quiet expectation.—Petit Parisien.

Invited to Groton.

The members of Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R. have received an invitation to attend the open house to be given by the Anna Warner chapter, D. A. R. of Groton and Stonington, at the Monument house, Groton, on Tuesday, September 6, from 3 to 5 p. m.

A Matter of History.

It cost millions of dollars and thirty-five years' time in work to prove conclusively that scientifically made paint is superior to the old method of making paint by hand, mixing it with a stick in a pot a few gallons at a time. The L. & M. Paint is scientifically made by machinery with only the finest White Zinc and White Lead made from metal and purest Linseed Oil. Its use saves costly labor and the many millions of gallons used throughout the United States have been sold by L. W. Carroll & Son, Norwich; J. P. Kingsley & Son, Plainfield.
